RUSTY NEEDLE IN HER ARM TROUBLES OF A STEPCHILD AFTER

THE NEW BRIDE CAME HOME. Mept on the Fire Escape Outside Father's indow, but He Daren't Let Her In. She Told the Neighbors-Stepmother Stabbed Her and a Gerry Agent Stepped In. The wife of John Attridge, a longshoreman, of 451 West Sixteenth street, died on May 16 of consumption. Four children were left behind, but only one of them, the eleven-year-old led home a new bride, who had been Mrs. Nellie Donovan, herself a widow. Annie had not had a stepmother many days when the neighbors knew that something was wrong. They heard the girl being scolded with great frequency, but that was too ordinary in a ment house to cause any excitement. But soon it was noticed that the girl kept away from home almost all day and several times she had bruises and wounds on her arms and fare. "Oh, that woman just threw a broken glass at me," replied Annie once to inquiries, pointing with her thumb in the direction of her home. Soon afterward she begged some food of a neighbor. The neighbor asked why she didn't eat at home.

"Because she has turned me out of the house for good now," Annie explained, scorning to mention any names.

"Turned you out?" asked the neighbor. "But where are you sleeping then, child?"

"On the fire escape in front of father's window," the girl replied cheerfully. "I can climb out from the stairway. It would be nice and cool if it wasn't so hard. I've slept there two nights now."

"Why don't you tell your father?" was the "Why don't you tell your father?" was the last question.

"Ugh, father." exclaimed Annie, in deep disgust. "He don't dare to let me in."

The next three nights Annie spent with different neighbors, all of whom had little room to spare. They fed her, too, although there were plenty of mouths to be filled in their own families. Thus matters logged along till last Saturday, when the crisis came. Annie, the neighbors and Agent Murphy of the Children's Society, agree that this is what happened. Annie was talking to a Mrs. Stedman in the hallway, when her stepmother appeared. The girl, probably encouraged by the presence of a friend, asked that one of her clean dresses be handed out to her. She received a harsh "no" for reply and turned away. A moment later, it is alleged, her stepmother walked deliberately up to the child and stabbed her in the left arm with a darning needle, leaving the needle sticking in the wound.

The girl ran. screaming with pain and fear

ately up to the child and stabbed her in the left arm with a darning needle, leaving the needle sticking in the wound.

The girl ran, screaming with pain and fear up to Mrs. Stedman, who extricated the needle and did her best to stop the flow of blood. The stepmother had disappeared in the meantime. Mrs. Stedman took the girl to her married sister, Mrs. Margaret Conlin, and the latter reported what had happened to the Children's Society. Agent Murphy caused the girl to be examined by a physician, having seen the needle and noticing that it was rusty. The physician declared that Annie was in danger of getting blood poison from the wound. A warrant was then sworn out for the Attridge woman. When Murphy tried to serve it vesterday morning he found the door locked, and from the inside Attridge's voice announced that any one that tried to get in would have a broken head for his trouble. With the assistance of a uniformed policeman Murphy then forced open the door and placed not only the woman but her husband under arrest.

The prisoners were arraigned in the Jefferson Market police court yesterday, the woman charged with assault, her husband on a charge of interfering with a policeman. Both were defant and tried to vent their anger on Annie before Magistrate Pool. The woman was held for examination to-day. Attridge was fined $10, with the alternative of serving ten days in the court prison. Annie was committed into the custody of the Children's Society, that she might obtain proper medical treatment.

GIRL ROBBER IS ANNIE WINTER. Her Father, Who Lives Here, Is Now at

Riverhead Searching for Her. RIVERHEAD, L. I., July 25.-William Winter of New York called upon Sheriff Wells and told him that the girl who robbed the residence of Theodore Woodhull at Wading River, after accepting food and shelter from the family, is his daughter, Annie Winter. The girl is not quite 15 years old, and the portion of her story about being out at service in Southold was true, he said. She had gone down there with a family for the summer and trouble began when the girl took a pocketbook belonging to a member of the family and spent $2 of the money it contained. She was frightened by being told that her father would punish her severely for this. The girl ran away from Southold and was not heard of again until her exploit at Wading River appeared in the newspapers.

President Truesdale of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad said yesterday that the directors had determined to refund all the bonds of that system as fast as they matured into 31/2 per cent. 100-year bonds. Although there are only $3,067,000 bonds of the Lackawanna proper there is an aggregate of about $54,000,000 of bonds outstanding on the main and branch lines. The maturity of the remainder of the $54,000,000 of outstanding bonds extends over many years, but the same refunding plan, it is expected, will be applied to each issue. The Lackawanna management has contracted with a substantial New York banking house to take charge of the refunding to be done this fall.

President Truesdale and other executive officers of the Lackawanna system inspected the Portland and Bangor kairoad in Western Pennsylvania two or three days ago and found it to be in good condition. This road has been purchased by the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western and it will become part of the Lackawanna system on Aug. 1. per cents. Negotiations are pending for the re-

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

WEDNESDAY, July 25. To-day's stock market reflected still further the effect of recent realizing by pools in various stocks and a material reduction in the short interest. The volume of business on the Stock Exchange showed a falling off of about one third as compared with that of the previous day and the transactions were very indiffer-ently distributed. The local speculative contingent appeared to be impressed for the first time by the unsettled condition of the money markets abroad and the indications o depression in general trade at various foreign financial and commercial centres. The London money market, in particular, displayed a rising tendency and prices for American railway shares showed fractional declines. The dealings in this market by the foreign arbitrage operators were insignificant, representing sales on balance of about 7,000 shares. The news regarding the Chinese situation was as conflicting as heretofore and toward the close of business there was some selling on reports of a spreading of the area of activity against the foreign element. As previously indicated in this column, there were no engagements of gold for shipment to Europe by to-morrow's steamer, owing to the advance in the rates for sterling exchange in Paris which wiped out all profit on such operations.

There was little or no domestic news calculated to directly affect prices. Some apprehension was expressed of an impending controversy between the anthracite miners and the larger producing and carrying companies at a conference to be held next month, and reports were circulated of a serious strike on the part of the employees of the Delaware and Hudson Company. The management of the company promptly denied the truth of the reports. A statement that an important conference of iron and steel representative interests was to be the New York Stock Exchange, Elliot T.

Barrows, President of the Produce Exchange, said in opening the meeting:
"There are three reasons why we should accede to this proposition. First, the courtesy due from one body of business men to another; second, the proximity of such a financial body, which will undoubtedly bring us business, and, third, the rent we receive for space we do not need at the present time."

It was thereupon voted with a unanimous whoop to let to the Stock Exchange from April 15, 1901, to May 1, 1902, about twelve thousand feet of the southerly end of the main floor on such terms as the managers may make. The rental, it is understood, will be $25,000 and the incidental expenses. the entire list in point of activity and closed slightly lower than on the previous day. Selling of this stock was attended by reports of a larger sugar cane crop in Louisiana. Its course reflected fairly good realizing. Metropolitan Street Railway scored the maximum net gain of 1% per cent. on very limited dealings. Brooklyn Rapid Transit displayed decided irregularity, and after an extreme fluctuation of about 2 points left off slightly lower than on Tuesday. New York Central sold off a point on less than 2,500 shares on rumors of impending labor troubles. The grain markets were lower on continued favorable crop reports, but the strictly professional character of the stock market prevented any reflection of this condition in the shares of B&NYF 18 the Granger roads, and dealings in that group were at extreme low ebb. The last-mentioned stock was sold on disappointment over the statement of surplus earnings for June. The
